

is it possible to modify to measure inductance as low as 1nH, capacitance as low as 1pF? With such small values the parasitic inductance/capacitance will dominate and you'd need a much ...

To make the LC100 a bit more work bench friendly, a few modifications have been implemented. 7 - 15VDC Input Modification. The LC100-A expects a 5V power supply, either by the ...

By reading one character at a time (see sketch above) I eventually get the correct values from the LC100-A that is being displayed on the meter. But I get a lot of other characters around it ...

Low C is supposed to measure up to 10 $\mu$ F, high C is for capacitances from 1 $\mu$ F upwards, low L is for inductors up to 100mH, and high L for inductors from 1mH upwards. So I set out to try each of the ...

Turn a cheap LC meter into a highly accurate device!

The document is a user manual for the LC100-A Digital L/C Meter. It has four measuring ranges for capacitance from 0.01pF to 10 $\mu$ F and inductance from 0.001 $\mu$ H to 100mH.

Also some first generation PCI-e 4 boards (X570, B550, Z690) are notoriously difficult with their voltage regulation and usb 2 behavior. Using both ports may not work and most owners ...

Yesterday morning he walked a short stretch of Via Giuseppe Ripamonti. Living not far away this was one of the thousands of times I walked it, all or at least in part. It may not be the longest street in ...

I have the LC100 pedal set but not the wheel base. I have installed the cammus software. It's plugged into a USB 2 port. I'm assuming that the RJ11 cable plugs into the cammus control box and the port ...

The USB interface (socket Mini-B, 5-pole) is labeled on the device with "SETUP" and is located on the case top of the LC100 and on the case bottom of the LC200 and LC300.
